“ I feel lucky to have shared so many joyful memories with you over the years, Grandma. I know we had a special relationship - I reminded you of my mother and you reminded me of her too. I think for that reason we had a special way of making each other feel whole and happy, like we were with her again. I truly do feel immense relief knowing that you two will be reunited - I know you were looking forward to that. Thank you for teaching me all that you did, from menial things like how to cut iceberg lettuce, to life lessons about forgiveness and family. I am deeply grateful to have learned from you and shared so many years with you. Selfishly, I wish you didn't have to go, but I know you were ready. I will try to always remember the good times we shared, your silly quirks and the sound of your signature cackle. I'll miss those things dearly. I love you always xx
